JOHN H. FLYNN,

WILLIAM BROWN, OF OREGON.

JOAQUIN MILLER.

They call him Bill, the hired man,
And she they call her Mary Jane,
And lovers often drew a rein
To chat and sigh as lovers can
Across the gate in snatch and catch;
And women winked across their tea,
And said, and truly so thought he,
That she would make a splendid match.

This hired man had loved her long,
Had loved her best and first and last;
Her very garments as she passed
For him had symphony and song.
So when one day with brow a-frown
She called him Bill, he raised his head,
Her caught her eye, then faltering said,
"I love you, and my name is Brown."

She fairly waltzed with rage, she wept,
You would have thought the house a-fire,
She told her sire, the portly squire,
Then smelt her smelling salts and slept.
Poor William did what could be done,
He swung a pistol on each hip,
He gathered up a great ox whip,
And drove toward the setting sun.

He crossed the great backbone of earth,
He saw the snowy mountains rolled
Like mighty billows, saw the gold
Of awful sunsets, saw the birth
Of sudden dawn upon the plain,
And every eve would William Brown
Eat pork and beans and then lie down
And dream sweet dreams of Mary Jane.

II.

The teter board of life goes up,
The teter board of life goes down,
The sweetest face must learn to frown;
The biggest dog has been a pup.
Her lovers passed. Wolves hunt in packs.
They sought for bigger game; somehow
They seemed to see about her brow
The forky sign of turkey tracks.

At last she nursed a new desire;
She sighed, she wept for William Brown.
She watched the splendid sun go down
Like some great sailing ship a-fire;
Then rose and checked her trunks right on
And in the cars she lunched and lunched,
And had her ticket punched and punched,
Until she came to Oregon.

She wore blue specs upon her nose,
She reached the limit of the lines,
And then set out to reach the mines,
In rather short and manly clothes.
Her right hand held a parasol,
Her pocket held a testament,
And thus equipped right on she went,
Went waterproof and waterfall.

She asked a miner gazing down,
Slow stirring something with a spoon,
To tell her true and tell her soon
What had become of William Brown.
He looked askance beneath her specs,
Then stirred his cock-tail round and round,
Then raised his head and sighed profound,
And said, "He's handed in his checks."

Then care fed on her damaged cheek,
And she grew faint did Mary Jane,
And smelt her smelling salts in vain,
Yet wandered on wayworn and weak
Until at last she sat her down
Upon a sloping hill alone;
And there, good gracious! stood a stone,
And lo! that stone read William Brown.

"O William Brown! O William Brown!"
And, here you rest at last," she said,
"With this lone stone above your head,
And forty miles from any town.
I will plant cypress trees, I will,
And I will build a fence around,
And I will fertilize the ground
With tears enough to turn a mill."

She went and got a hired man,
She brought him forty miles from town;
Then in the tall grass she sat down,
And bade him build as she should plan;
But digger herders with their bands
They saw and hurriedly they ran
And told a bearded cattle-man
That some one builded on his lands.

He took a rifle from the rack,
He girt him in his battle pelt,
He thrust two pistols in his belt,
Then mounted on his charger's back,
And plunged ahead. But when they showed
A woman there, about his eyes
He pulled his hat, and he likewise
Pulled at his beard, and chewed and chewed.

At last he got him down and spake,
"O lady, dear, what do you here?"
"I build a tomb unto my dear;
I plant some flowers for his sake."
The bearded man threw his two hands
Above his head, then brought them down,
And cried, "O, I am William Brown,
And this the corner of my lands."

Her specs fell off, her head fell back
Some like a lifted teapot lid;
She screamed—this ancient maiden did—
Then, fainting, split herself, alack!
Right in the beard of William Brown.
Then all the diggers were amazed,
They thought the lonely maiden crazed,
And, circling there, they squatted down.

III.

The preacher rode a spotted mare,
He galloped forty miles or more;
He swore he never had before
Seen bride or bridegroom half so fair.
And all the miners, they came down,
And feasted as the night advanced;
And all the diggers drank and danced,
And cried, "Big Injin, William Brown."

A NOVEL RAFFLE.

A Beautiful Young Lady Offers Herself as a Prize to the Lucky One.

From the Seymour (Ind.) Star.

One of the most novel, as well as exciting, raffles that ever took place in Seymour came off on Saturday evening last. Miss Minnie Clarence made the novel proposition of putting herself up to be raffled off at 50 cents a chance. At first the matter was treated as a joke, but when it became known that the offer was a bona fide one, chances went rapidly, and in less than one hour every chance was taken, and heavy premiums were being paid by young men anxious to win the beautiful and lovely prize.

Miss Minnie is a most bewitching beauty of eighteen summers, an orphan, of respectable parentage, and a member of the best society of the state. She was decidedly the belle of Seymour, and was loved and admired by all who ever became acquainted with her, and, probably envied just the least bit by the young ladies she is a bright blonde, perfect in form, fair complexion, and most ravishingly beautiful eyes. Ever since she came to Seymour she has been the centre of attraction and the admiration of men. In justice to Minnie, we should state that she gave the winner the privilege of accepting or refusing her, and preserved the same privilege for herself. There may have been several in the crowd whom she would have refused, but there were none, we venture to say, who would refuse her. How could they?

The hour set for the rafle came, as found all ready to try their luck and in Minnie was there in person, and charm the height of fashion, to look leaning to the occasion. Show case, never gracefully against straying the least speaking a word of the slightest preference, or of the contestants, exerence for was a perceptible twinkle cepting beautiful eyes when some young in handsome "lovier" would shake the box.

Name after name was called, and each one in turn would shake the box with nervous hand, until all but three had thrown, and nothing higher than thirty-eight had been thrown. Then came Lynn Falconer's turn. Lynn is a blonde himself, and a clever, hard working young man, and perhaps the twinkle of her eyes nerved him to the work. At any rate he tossed the ivory with a steady hand, and the scorer called 46. The other two throws were made amid much too much excitement to even be counted, and the prize awarded to Lynn. Minnie came forward and took Lynn's arm, and the two went out together amid the cheers of the crowd. She accompanied him to his father's hotel, where she was presented to his relatives, who had not had the pleasure of her acquaintance before, after which she was escorted home. We of course do not know certain, but as Lynn is a good, clever young man, and she would be an honor to any household, we are inclined to think neither of them will back out.

—A country girl, coming from a morning walk, was told she looked as fresh as a daisy kissed by the dew, to which she innocently replied: "You've got my name right, Daisy, but his isn't Dew." Mitchell street. The public are respectfully ...

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. Lamkin was granted leave of absence on account of sickness in his family.

THE LOUISIANA OUTRAGE.

Mr. Carleton of Clark called up his resolutions regarding the Louisiana outrage which were read the second time and referred to the committee on the State of the Republic.

Mr Walsh offered the following resolutions which were referred to the same committee without being read:

Whereas, the recent occurrences in the city of New Orleans are of a character to excite the gravest apprehensions for the safety of Republican institutions in lover of he minds of constitutional liberty and local self-government be it

Resolved, By the representatives of the people of Georgia in General Assembly convened, that the action of the military commander at New Orleans in invading with armed men the legislative hall of Louisiana and ejecting therefrom at the point of the bayonet, duly elected and legally qualified members of the legislature of that State, was wholly without warrant of law, was arbitrary and tyrannical—a violent attempt upon the principles of republican government, an outrage upon the rights of the free people of a free State and as well upon the rights of all the people of all the States.

Resolved, That we cannot too severely censure the lieutenant general of the army of the United States by whose authority this act was done and the president of the United States by whom it was sanctioned and approved.

Resolved, That the people of Georgia, proclaiming their devotion to the union and their fealty to the constitution, appeal to the people of all the states, irrespective of party, to place the seal of their condemnation upon an act which threatens the destruction of the union and the subversion of that Constitution, and which, if allowed to pass unpunished and unrebuked, will assuredly lead to the total overthrow of republican government in this country and the erection on the ruins of a military despotism.

Resolved, That the state of Georgia profoundly sympathizes with the State of Louisiana in this deadly assault upon the liberties of her people and her rights as a sovereign State, assuring her that indignation at the commission of the crime is mixed with admiration for the grandeur and heroism of her forbearance, and believing that her wrongs will be redressed by the better judgment of the American people.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to our senators and representatives at Washington, with a request that they be presented to the congress of the United States.

Mr. Revill offered the following, which was read and referred to the same committee.

Resolved, That we the Representatives of the people of Georgia, utterly condemn the recent interference of the military forces of the United States, in seating some and unseating others claiming to be members of the state legislature of Louisiana, as destructive of the rights of the state, and subversive of the liberties of the people of the entire country.

Resolved, That our Senators and Representatives in Congress are hereby instructed to neither countenance the interference aforesaid, by act, speech or silence.

A motion to extend the session thirty minutes was lost.

The House then adjourned until 9:30 A. M. Monday.

A FLORIDA MARVEL.

Youth Renewed by a Plunge in an Everglade Spring.

[Charleston News.]

An old lawsuit has come to an untimely end in Florida. During the war, when the federal fleet was menacing Tampa Bay, a certain Fred Halseman, an old planter of Hillsboro' county, anxious, like the rest of his tribe, to be "let alone," thought that the famous everglades would be the safest place to stay, and accordingly disappeared into their tangled recesses. He took with him his wife and their youngest child, a boy five years old. The wife and mother got separated in some way from the two others, and luckily happened to wander back to her home. Three years went by. The war was over. The older sons had returned from service in the confederate army and were working on the plantation on shares, with their former slaves. During all this time nothing had been heard of the missing pair. They were mourned for as dead. One day in the spring of 1867, a man apparently about thirty years old, leading by the hand a boy of five, ran joyously up to the verandah of the plantation house, and began a series of violent kisses of the aged mother in Israel, who with the aid of large type and spectacles, was reading her bible there. His demonstrations of affection were interrupted by the screams of the old lady and the blows of the oldest son. Both struck the intruder painfully. He tried to speak, but was obliged to devote his energies to the task of finding a soft spot to fall upon at the end of the parabola, which the son's last well aimed blow made him describe the air. He rose bewildered and bruised just in time to be knocked down again by a select assortment of younger sons and negroes, whom the sound of the scuffle had called to the spot. As he fell, something tumbled from the pocket of his ragged coat. It was a picture of the widow. The dead planter had carried with him when he plunged into the swamps.

There was a general outcry, and a demand for an explanation. The story of the newcomer was in brief, this: He was Fred Halseman. In his wanderings through his vast hiding-place, he had fallen into a foaming spring. When he clambered out, his son ran away as if in fright. He ran after him with surprising speed. The child, when caught, screamed for its father. It was long before he could be persuaded that the young, fresh, vigorous man who climbed out of the pool was the aged, decrepit, white-haired man who had fallen into it a moment before. The father himself could not at first appreciate the change. He saw that his hands were no longer wrinkled, that his beard was brown instead of gray, that his step was firmer and his eye keener, but the suddenness of the transformation puzzled him. All at once the truth flashed upon him. He had fallen into the fountain of youth which Ponce De Leon sought in vain amid the Florida swamps. He hastened back and plunged his son into the spring. It was an unlucky deed. The tradition about the fountain has always been that its wonderful waters changed age to vigorous manhood, and made already existent youth immutable so long as life lasted. The tradition proved true. He had become young. His son stayed so. The boy was five years old when the potent water touched him, and he showed no signs of growth beyond that age, in mind or body, during the three years they spent lost in the labyrinth. They lived mainly on alligators, which when young are very good eating. When they killed an old one it was their custom to plunge it, while a spark of life was still left, into the fountain of youth. Thus it became young again, and their fastidious palates were satisfied. Finally, after many vain attempts, the two got out of the wilderness in which they had been so long lost. They happened to come out near the old home, and hastened to it.

This was the man's story. It is not to be wondered at, perhaps, that he told it to a set of scoffers. The picture was taken from him. His accurate recollection of the life of the missing planter was accounted for on the hypothesis that he had met him in the swamps and had heard the details from his lips. He was accused of stealing the picture. It began to be whispered that he had probably murdered Halseman. He was told to go, and he went, taking the boy with him. He reappeared a week afterward at Tampa alone. The child, he said, had died of fright and want. He began suit for the possession of the Halseman plantation. When the trial came off, he rested his case on three points: the resemblance of the boy to the child who had disappeared in 1864, his own ready recollection of the minutiæ of Halseman's life, and his ability to pilot anybody to the fountain of Ponce de Leon. The first two points were admitted, but the resemblance was attributed by the defense to a chance coincidence, and the knowledge of the past to a presumed intimacy between the planter and the pretender while both were lost in the everglades. When men meet each other under such circumstances they tell everything. The most trivial details are eagerly related and heard, for the sake of whiling away the monotonous hours. So the argument ran fairly enough. Finally the third point was denied. Acting on a suggestion of the court, the claimant went with a large party in search of the miraculous spring. After some weeks of wandering, they came back without having found it. Still this failure did not absolutely disprove the claim. The most practiced woodsmen have often gone astray in in southern Florida. When the case went to a jury, the latter disagreed. So did the next one impaneled, and the next. The last of the three, however came very near giving a verdict for the plaintiff. This was mainly due to the admirable management of his counsel at that time, Hon. John A. Henderson, the democratic candidate for congress at the recent election. The claimant's gratitude to Henderson was the indirect cause of his death This occurred on the 3d of November During a scuffle at the polls, where he was distributing democratic ballots, he was shot through the body. Somebody lifted his head. He gasped "I am ——," and died. The present possessor of the estate, whose title has been settled by his death, avers that at the last moment remorse overtook him, he tried to say, "I am not Hasleman," but was too weak to finish the sentence. On the other hand, his friends declare that with his last breath he asserted the justice of his claim by trying to say "I am Halseman." This, however, is all conjecture. Was he Halseman, or was he some other man?

DR. TUTT'S MEDICINES.

DR. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS.
A mild aperient and gentle purgative, recommended for the cure of all derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. By their timely use much sickness is prevented. The test of many years have proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an Antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific. For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, Nervousness, a positive cure. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. When one does not "feel very well," a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system Sold everywhere. Office, 18 Murray street, New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE,
is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 00 per box.

DR. TUTT'S EXPECTORANT.
The ghastly record of deaths that result from pulmonary affections is frightful. There is no disease that is so insiduous in its attack as consumption. By the neglect of "slight colds" they soon become deep seated and defy remedies which, if applied at the outset, would have averted all danger. Dr. Tutt's Expectorant has proven itself the most valuable Lung Balsam ever discovered. A distinguished clergyman of New York, pronounces it the "greatest blessing of the nineteenth century," and says "no family should be without it." It is pleasant to the taste, and a single dose will often remove the most obstinate cough. Office, 18 Murray street, New York.

Come Up and Pay Your QUARTERLY TAX!

OPIUM ANTIDOTE.

Stop, Read, Reflect and Act
Before it is too Late!
Dr. S. B. Collins' Painless
OPIUM ANTIDOTE
Is a perfect and painless cure for
The Habitual use of Opium
in any of its forms, whether as MORPHINE, LAUDANUM, ELIXIR, or GUM OPIUM
It Positively Produces a Permanent Cure.
IT is strange yet true, that as a rule it is the brightest intellects, the best members of society become addicted to this diseased appetite. A habit which makes them slaves beclouds their minds, ruins their dispositions, and gives them in their more natural moments a hatred of self as well as a feeling that everybody despises them—to such an extent that society has no charms. But thanks to the Giver of all good, this morbid, terrible habit, and degraded condition, as well as all of the desire and feeling for opiates in any form is soon removed by this remarkable antidote, entirely so, and the weakened body and mind are invigorated, given renewed health until love and hope take the place of despondency and doubt. Though you may not be afflicted with the habit of using MORPHINE, LAUDANUM, or other forms of OPIUM, some friend may be, and you know it not, therefore let me ask you, in the name of suffering humanity to pass this on. By so doing you may reap the reward of those who do good. DELAY NOT.

FLYNN,

WILLIAM BROWN, OF OREGON.

JOAQUIN MILLER.

They call him Bill, the hired man,
And she they call her Mary Jane,
And lovers often drew a rein
To chat and sigh as lovers can
Across the gate in snatch and catch;
And women winked across their tea,
And said, and truly so thought he,
That she would make a splendid match.

This hired man had loved her long,
Had loved her best and first and last;
Her very garments as she passed
For him had symphony and song.
So when one day with brow a-frown
She called him Bill, he raised his head,
Her caught her eye, then faltering said,
"I love you, and my name is Brown."

She fairly waltzed with rage, she wept,
You would have thought the house a-fire,
She told her sire, the portly squire,
Then smelt her smelling salts and slept.
Poor William did what could be done,
He swung a pistol on each hip,
He gathered up a great ox whip,
And drove toward the setting sun.

He crossed the great backbone of earth,
He saw the snowy mountains rolled
Like mighty billows, saw the gold
Of awful sunsets, saw the birth
Of sudden dawn upon the plain,
And every eve would William Brown
Eat pork and beans and then lie down
And dream sweet dreams of Mary Jane.

II.

The teter board of life goes up,
The teter board of life goes down,
The sweetest face must learn to frown;
The biggest dog has been a pup.
Her lovers passed. Wolves hunt in packs.
They sought for bigger game; somehow
They seemed to see about her brow
The forky sign of turkey tracks.

At last she nursed a new desire;
She sighed, she wept for William Brown.
She watched the splendid sun go down
Like some great sailing ship a-fire;
Then rose and checked her trunks right on
And in the cars she lunched and lunched,
And had her ticket punched and punched,
Until she came to Oregon.

She wore blue specs upon her nose,
She reached the limit of the lines,
And then set out to reach the mines,
In rather short and manly clothes.
Her right hand held a parasol,
Her pocket held a testament,
And thus equipped right on she went,
Went waterproof and waterfall.

She asked a miner gazing down,
Slow stirring something with a spoon,
To tell her true and tell her soon
What had become of William Brown.
He looked askance beneath her specs,
Then stirred his cock-tail round and round,
Then raised his head and sighed profound,
And said, "He's handed in his checks."

Then care fed on her damaged cheek,
And she grew faint did Mary Jane,
And smelt her smelling salts in vain,
Yet wandered on wayworn and weak
Until at last she sat her down
Upon a sloping hill alone;
And there, good gracious! stood a stone,
And lo! that stone read William Brown.

"O William Brown! O William Brown!"
And, here you rest at last," she said,
"With this lone stone above your head,
And forty miles from any town.
I will plant cypress trees, I will,
And I will build a fence around,
And I will fertilize the ground
With tears enough to turn a mill.

She went and got a hired man,
She brought him forty miles from town;
Then in the tall grass she sat down,
And bade him build as she should plan;
But digger herders with their bands
They saw and hurriedly they ran
And told a bearded cattle-man
That some one builded on his lands.

He took a rifle from the rack,
He girt him in his battle pelt,
He thrust two pistols in his belt,
Then mounted on his charger's back,
And plunged ahead. But when they showed
A woman there, about his eyes
He pulled his hat, and he likewise
Pulled at his beard, and chewed and chewed.

At last he got him down and spake,
"O lady, dear, what do you here?"
"I build a tomb unto my dear;
I plant some flowers for his sake."
The bearded man threw his two hands
Above his head, then brought them down,
And cried, "O, I am William Brown,
And this the corner of my lands."

Her specs fell off, her head fell back
Some like a lifted teapot lid;
She screamed—this ancient maiden did—
Then, fainting, split herself, alack!
Right in the beard of William Brown.
Then all the diggers were amazed,
They thought the lonely maiden crazed,
And, circling there, they squatted down.

III.

The preacher rode a spotted mare,
He galloped forty miles or more;
He swore he never had before
Seen bride or bridegroom half so fair.
And all the miners, they came down,
And feasted as the night advanced;
And all the diggers drank and danced,
And cried, "Big Injin, William Brown."

A NOVEL RAFFLE.

A Beautiful Young Lady Offers Herself as a Prize to the Lucky One.

From the Seymour (Ind.) Star.

One of the most novel, as well as exciting, raffles that ever took place in Seymour came off on Saturday evening last. Miss Minnie Clarence made the novel proposition of putting herself up to be raffled off at 50 cents a chance. At first the matter was treated as a joke, but when it became known that the offer was a bona fide one, chances went rapidly, and in less than one hour every chance was taken, and heavy premiums were being paid by young men anxious to win the beautiful and lovely prize.

Miss Minnie is a most bewitching beauty of eighteen summers, an orphan, of respectable parentage, and a member of the best society of the state. She was decidedly the belle of Seymour, and was loved and admired by all who ever became acquainted with her, and, probably envied just the least bit by the young ladies she is a bright blonde, perfect in form, fair complexion, and most ravishingly beautiful eyes. Ever since she came to Seymour she has been the centre of attraction and the admiration of men. In justice to Minnie, we should state that she gave the winner the privilege of accepting or refusing her, and preserved the same privilege for herself. There may have been several in the crowd whom she would have refused, but there were none, we venture to say, who would refuse her. How could they?

The hour set for the rafle came, and found all ready to try their luck. Miss Minnie was there in person, dressed in the height of fashion, to lend a charm to the occasion. She stood leaning gracefully against a show case, never speaking a word or betraying the least emotion, or showing the slightest preference for any of the contestants, excepting there was a perceptible twinkle in her beautiful eyes when some young and handsome "lovier" would shake the dice.

Name after name was called, and each one in turn would shake the box with nervous hand, until all but three had thrown, and nothing higher than thirty-eight had been thrown. Then came Lynn Falconer's turn. Lynn is a blonde himself, and a clever, hard working young man, and perhaps the twinkle of her eyes nerved him to the work. At any rate he tossed the ivory with a steady hand, and the scorer called 46. The other two throws were made amid much too much excitement to even be counted, and the prize awarded to Lynn. Minnie came forward and took Lynn's arm, and the two went out together amid the cheers of the crowd. She accompanied him to his father's hotel, where she was presented to his relatives, who had not had the pleasure of her acquaintance before, after which she was escorted home. We of course do not know certain, but as Lynn is a good, clever young man, and she would be an honor to any household, we are inclined to think neither of them will back out.

—A country girl, coming from a morning walk, was told she looked as fresh as a daisy kissed by the dew, to which she innocently replied: "You've got my name right 'Daisy,' but his isn't Dew."

Mr. Patton—To organize a criminal court in Schley county.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. Lamkin was granted leave of absence on account of sickness in his family.

THE LOUISIANA OUTRAGE.

Mr. Carleton of Clark called up his resolutions regarding the Louisiana outrage which were read the second time and referred to the committee on the State of the Republic.

Mr Walsh offered the following resolutions which were referred to the same committee without being read:

Whereas, the recent occurrences in the city of New Orleans are of a character to excite the gravest apprehensions for the safety of Republican institutions in lover of he minds of constitutional liberty and local self-government be it

Resolved, By the representatives of the people of Georgia in General Assembly convened, that the action of the military commander at New Orleans in invading with armed men the legislative hall of Louisiana and ejecting therefrom at the point of the bayonet, duly elected and legally qualified members of the legislature of that State, was wholly without warrant of law, was arbitrary and tyrannical—a violent attempt upon the principles of republican government, an outrage upon the rights of the free people of a Free State and as well upon the rights of all the people of all the States.

Resolved, That we cannot too severely censure the lieutenant general of the army of the United States by whose authority this act was done and the president of the United States by whom it was sanctioned and approved.

Resolved, That the people of Georgia, proclaiming their devotion to the union and their fealty to the constitution, appeal to the people of all the states, irrespective of party, to place the seal of their condemnation upon an act which threatens the destruction of the union and the subversion of that Constitution, and which, if allowed to pass unpunished and unrebuked, will assuredly lead to the total overthrow of republican government in this country and the erection on the ruins of a military despotism.

Resolved, That the state of Georgia profoundly sympathize with the State of Louisiana in this deadly assault upon the liberties of her people and her rights as a sovereign State, assuring her that indignation at the commission of the crime is mixed with admiration for the grandeur and heroism of her forbearance, and believing that her wrongs will be redressed by the better judgment of the American people.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to our senators and representatives at Washington, with a request that they be presented to the congress of the United States.

Mr. Revill offered the following, which was read and referred to the same committee.

Resolved, That we the Representatives of the people of Georgia, utterly condemn the recent interference of the military forces of the United States, in seating some and unseating others claiming to be members of the state legislature of Louisiana, as destructive of the rights of the state, and subversive of the liberties of the people of the entire country.

Resolved, That our Senators and Representatives in Congress are hereby instructed to neither countenance the interference aforesaid, by act, speech or silence.

A motion to extend the session thirty minutes was lost.

The House then adjourned until 9:30 A. M. Monday.

A FLORIDA MARVEL.

Youth Renewed by a Plunge in an Everglade Spring.

[Charleston News.]

An old lawsuit has come to an untimely end in Florida. During the war, when the federal fleet was menacing Tampa Bay, a certain Fred Halseman, an old planter of Hillsboro' county, anxious, like the rest of his tribe, to be "let alone," thought that the famous everglades would be the safest place to stay, and accordingly disappeared into their tangled recesses. He took with him his wife and their youngest child, a boy five years old. The wife and mother got separated in some way from the two others, and luckily happened to wander back to her home. Three years went by. The war was over. The older sons had returned from service in the confederate army and were working on the plantation on shares, with their former slaves. During all this time nothing had been heard of the missing pair. They were mourned for as dead. One day in the spring of 1867, a man apparently about thirty years old, leading by the hand a boy of five, ran joyously up to the veranda of the plantation house, and began a series of violent kisses of the aged mother in Israel, who, with the aid of large type and spectacles, was reading her bible there. His demonstrations of affection were interrupted by the screams of the old lady and the blows of the oldest son. Both struck the intruder painfully. He tried to speak, but was obliged to devote all his energies to the task of finding a soft spot to fall upon at the end of the parabola, which the son's last well aimed blow made him describe in the air. He rose bewildered and bruised, just in time to be knocked down again by a select assortment of younger sons and negroes, whom the sound of the scuffle had called to the spot. As he fell, something tumbled from the pocket of his ragged coat. It was a picture of the widow. The dead planter had carried it with him when he plunged into the swamps.

There was a general outcry, and a demand for an explanation. The story of the newcomer was, in brief, this: He was Fred Halseman. In his wanderings through his vast hiding-place, he had fallen into a foaming spring. When he clambered out, his son ran away as if in fright. He ran after him with surprising speed. The child, when caught, screamed for its father. It was long before he could be persuaded that the young, fresh, vigorous man who climbed out of the pool was the aged, decrepit, white-haired man who had fallen into it a moment before. The father himself could not at first appreciate the change. He saw that his hands were no longer wrinkled, that his beard was brown instead of gray, that his step was firmer and his eye keener, but the suddenness of the transformation puzzled him. All at once the truth flashed upon him. He had fallen into the fountain of youth which Ponce De Leon sought in vain amid the Florida swamps. He hastened back and plunged his son into the spring. It was an unlucky deed. The tradition about the fountain has always been that its wonderful waters changed age to vigorous manhood, and made already existent youth immutable so long as life lasted. The tradition proved true. He had become young. His son stayed so. The boy was five years old when the potent water touched him, and he showed no signs of growth beyond that age, in mind or body, during the three years they spent lost in the labyrinth. They lived mainly on alligators, which when young are very good eating. When they killed an old one it was their custom to plunge it, while a spark of life was still left, into the fountain of youth. Thus it became young again, and their fastidious palates were satisfied. Finally, after many vain attempts, the two got out of the wilderness in which they had been so long lost. They happened to come out near the old home, and hastened to it. This was the man's story. It is not to be wondered at, perhaps, that he told it to a set of scoffers. The picture was taken from him. His accurate recollection of the life of the missing planter was accounted for on the hypothesis that he had met him in the swamps and had heard the details from his lips. He was accused of stealing the picture. It began to be whispered that he had probably murdered Halseman. He was told to go, and he went, taking the boy with him. He reappeared a week afterward at Tampa alone. The child, he said, had died of fright and want. He began suit for the possession of the Halseman plantation. When the trial came off, he rested his case on three points: the resemblance of the boy to the child who had disappeared in 1864, his own ready recollection of the minutiæ of Halseman's life, and his ability to pilot anybody to the fountain of Ponce de Leon. The first two points were admitted, but the resemblance was attributed by the defense to a chance coincidence, and the knowledge of the past to a presumed intimacy between the planter and the pretender while both were lost in the everglades. When men meet each other under such circumstances they tell everything. The most trivial details are eagerly related and heard, for the sake of whiling away the monotonous hours. So the argument ran fairly enough. Finally the third point was denied. Acting on a suggestion of the court, the claimant went with a large party in search of the miraculous spring. After some weeks of wandering, they came back without having found it. Still this failure did not absolutely disprove the claim. The most practiced woodsmen have often gone astray in in southern Florida. When the case went to a jury, the latter disagreed. So did the next one impaneled, and the next. The last of the three, however came very near giving a verdict for the plaintiff. This was mainly due to the admirable management of his counsel at that time, Hon. John A. Henderson, the democratic candidate for congress at the recent election. The claimant's gratitude to Henderson was the indirect cause of his death This occurred on the 3d of November During a scuffle at the polls, where he was distributing democratic ballots, he was shot through the body. Somebody lifted his head. He gasped "I am ——," and died. The present possessor of the estate, whose title has been settled by his death, avers that at the last moment remorse overtook him, he tried to say, "I am not Hasleman," but was too weak to finish the sentence. On the other hand, his friends declare that with his last breath he asserted the justice of his claim by trying to say "I am Halseman." This, however, is all conjecture. Was he Halseman, or was he some other man?

DR. TUTT'S MEDICINES.

DR. TUTTS VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS.

A mild aperient and gentle purgative, recommended for the cure of all derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. By their timely use much sickness is prevented. The test of many years have proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an Antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific. For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, Nervousness, a positive cure. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. When one does not "feel very well," a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system Sold everywhere. Office, 18 Murray street, New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE,

is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 00 per box.

DR. TUTTS EXPECTORANT.

The ghastly record of deaths that result from pulmonary affections is frightful. There is no disease that is so insiduous in its attack as consumption. By the neglect of "slight colds" they soon become deep seated and defy remedies which, if applied at the outset, would have averted all danger. Dr. Tutt's Expectorant has proven itself the most valuable Lung Balsam ever discovered. A distinguished clergyman of New York, pronounces it the "greatest blessing of the nineteenth century," and says "no family should be without it." It is pleasant to the taste, and a single dose will often remove the most obstinate cough. Office, 18 Murray street, New York.

in any of its forms, whether as MORPHINE, LAUDANUM, ELIXIR, or GUM OPIUM

It Positively Produces a Permanent Cure.

IT is strange yet true, that as a rule it is the brightest intellects, the best members of society become addicted to this diseased appetite. A habit which makes them slaves beclouds their minds, ruins their dispositions, and gives them in their more natural moments a hatred of self as well as a feeling that everybody despises them—to such an extent that society has no charms. But thanks to the Giver of all good, this morbid, terrible habit, and degraded condition, as well as all of the desire and feeling for opiates in any form is soon removed by this remarkable antidote, entirely so, and the weakened body and mind are invigorated, given renewed health until love and hope take the place of despondency and doubt. Though you may not be afflicted with the habit of using MORPHINE, LAUDANUM, or other forms of OPIUM, some friend may be, and you know it not, therefore let me ask you, in the name of suffering humanity to pass this on. By so doing you may reap the reward of those who do good. DELAY NOT.

Senator Henry B. Anthony, who has been confined to his home on account of sickness, left New York for Washington a few nights ago. His letters and papers, which accumulated at Washington during his illness and which were transmitted to Providence, were burned in the railroad disaster of January 7.

Here is a pleasant historical fact for Gen. Maney, the new minister to Ecuador. In 1797, on the fourth day of February, a slight shock was heard in Quito, the capital of Ecuador, and in the space of a second forty thousand persons were hurled into eternity! Grant must think Quito a good place to get rid of confederate generals who turn radicals.

"When we read, as boys, of Cromwell dissolving the parliament and driving the members out of the hall, we did not dream of seeing something very like it done in our own country," was a remark made by a zealous republican in Washington on last Wednesday, and the answer was, "If you are not careful, Sheridan will go gunning after you congressmen some day."—Boston Globe.

Governor Kellogg has repeatedly affirmed that Louisiana under his rule is peaceful, and that only a few political agitators are dissatisfied with his government. General Sheridan, on the contrary, informs the president that there is no government, and asks for a proclamation authorizing him to punish leading citizens as banditti. There is a discrepancy in the views of the governor and the general, and it is the more remarkable as they are both on the same side. If Louisiana is quiet Sheridan has no business to be there, and if it is not quiet Kellogg has no right to claim the confidence of the community.

Legislative Summary.

We give a full synopsis of the bills introduced in the house on the subject of fixing the rate of interest and re-enacting the usury laws.

The bill of Mr. Baker of Bartow provides:

Sec. 1.—That when any person makes a written contract to pay interest at a rate not exceeding ten per centum per annum for the use of money, such contract shall be valid and binding and may be enforced in the courts of this state.

Section. 2. If the contract is silent as to the rate of interest to be charged, seven per centum per annum only can be collected.

Section 3. Where a written contract is made to pay more than ten per centum per annum for the use of money borrowed, the lender shall not be entitled to recover any interest on the sum lent.

Section 4. Any usurous interest paid by any person, whether paid in advance or at the time the money is borrowed, or included in the face of the written contract, shall, if sued for within six months after the payment thereof, be recovered back with legal interest thereon.

The bill of Mr. Turnbull, of Banks, provides:

Sec. 1. That from and after the passage of this act, the legal rate of interest upon money in this state shall be 7 per cent. per annum, provided that nothing herein contained shall prevent any person or persons from charging 10 per cent. when the same is specified or named in the contract between the parties contracting.

Sec. 2. That any person or persons charging or demanding more interest upon money under any contract whatsoever than that set forth in the first section of this act shall not be permitted to collect or recover the same in any court of law or equity in this state under penalty of forfeiting the whole of the interest upon the debt or contract.

The bill of Mr. Rankin, of Gordon, provides:

Whereas, By constant and uniform experience for ages past, it has been found that a moderate and reasonable interest or annual premium for monies lent on contracts is productive of the most beneficial effects to a state, by promoting an increase of circulation, and rendering the attainment of money easy to the poor and industrious, whereby the honest and laborious, being furnished with the means of labor and industry, are encouraged to pursue their respective employments with diligence and application, and thereby giving vim and progress to the arts, extending and diffusing trade and commerce, advancing and improving agriculture and good husbandry, every occupation becomes flourishing and successful, the strength, wealth, credit and power of a people are supported and increased, and peace, plenty, liberty and happiness become firmly established amongst them, in order therefore, to promote ends so desirable and beneficial.

That from and after the passage of this act, no person or persons whatsoever, upon any contract, shall take directly or indirectly for loan of any monies, wares, merchandise or other commodities whatsoever, above the value of seven per cent. per annum interest, and so after that rate for a greater or lesser sum, or for a longer or shorter time, and so according to that rate and proportion for goods, wares, merchandise or commodities lent, to be repaid again in goods, wares, or commodities, or in money, and that all bonds, contracts or assurances whatsoever, made after the passage of this act, for the payment of any principal or money, to be lent, covenanted, to be performed upon, or for any usury, whereupon or whereby they shall be reserved or taken above the rate of seven per cent. per annum, as aforesaid only the principal due thereon shall be recoverable at law, and no more.

The bill of Mr. Calhoun provides:

1st. That the rate of interest shall be 7 per cent. per annum, and no person or corporation shall recover more under any pretext whatever. When any one shall pay more than the lawful rate he shall have the right of action to recover the same back, the amount so paid over shall not be barred by the statute of limitation.

The bill of Mr. Hoge provides:

1st. That it shall not be lawful for any person, company or corporation to re- charge or take for any loan or advance of money or forbearance to enforce the collection thereof, any rate of interest greater than ten per cent. per annum either directly or indirectly, by way of commissions for advance, discount or exchange, or by any contract or contrivance or device whatever.

2nd. Any person, company or corporation violating the provisions of this act shall forfeit three times the amount of interest, and the excess of interest so received, charged or taken or contracted to be received, charged or taken. The amount forfeited may be paid as a set off in any action for the recovery of the principal sum loaned or advanced by the defendant in action, or by any creditor by process of garnishment, or by the wife of the person to whom such loan or advance was made for the benefit of herself and children, or by any next friend.

3. No continuance or arrangement between the parties to pay any such unlawful contract or their privies, shall have the effect to discharge such forfeiture, except it be an actual and full payment of the amount forfeited.

4. Any plea or suit for the recovery of such forfeiture hereinbefore authorized, shall not be barred until after the expiration of ten years from the time of making such unlawful contracts.

5. That any provision in the charter of any corporation granted since January, 1863, allowing them to charge or receive a higher rate of interest, is hereby repealed.

6. The legal rate of interest is seven per cent.; any higher rate must be specified in writing.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Mr. Baker's bill relative to residence of voters provides:

Section 1. That, so soon as the requirements of the constitution, as to constitutional amendments, shall have been complied with, the words six months contained in the 2d section 2d article of said constitution be stricken out and the words "one year" be substituted in lieu thereof, and the words thirty days be stricken out and the words six months inserted in lieu thereof so that the clause of said section in relation to the time required for residence of voters shall read, "who shall have resided in this state one year next preceding the election and shall have resided six months

Mr. Speer's bill provides:

Section 1. That, so soon as this act shall have passed in pursuance of the provisions of the constitution, and the same shall be approved by a vote of the people, paragraph 4, section 6, article 3, shall cease and be no longer a part of the constitution of this state.

Section 2. That the following shall be substituted in lieu of paragraph 4, sec. 6, article 3, as a part of said constitution:

"No county, city, town or village, shall hereafter give any money or property, or loan its money, or credit to or in aid of any individual, association or corporation, or become directly or indirectly the owner of stock in or bonds of any association or corporation, nor shall any such county, city, town or village, be allowed to incur any indebtedness except for county, city or village purposes. This provision shall not prevent such county, city, town or village, from making provision for the education of its youth and for the aid and support of its poor, as may be authorized by law."

Section 3. That in lieu of paragraph 5, sec. 6, art. 3, of the constitution of this state, the following be substituted therefor.

"The general assembly shall have no power to grant corporate powers and privileges to private companies except to banking, insurance, railroad, canal navigation, mining, express, lumber, manufacturing and telegraph companies, nor to make or change election precincts, nor to establish bridges or ferries nor to change names or legitimatize children, but it shall prescribe by law the manner in which such powers shall be exercised by the courts. But no charter for any bank shall be granted or extended, and no act authorizing the suspension of specie payment by any bank except by a vote of two-thirds of the general assembly.

Neither the credit nor the money of the state shall be given or loaned to or in aid of any association, corporation or private undertaking; provided the legislature may make such provision for the education of the youth, the education and support of the deaf and dumb, and of the blind of this state as to it may seem proper.

LOUISIANA.

A host of resolutions have been introduced on the Louisiana outrage.

The Senatorial Elections.

Of the twenty five senators whose terms will begin on the fifth day of March, no less than twelve will be chosen day after to morrow, if there is no instance of protracted balloting. This new twelve will come in equal proportion from Delaware, Florida, Tennessee, Indiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New York, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. Five other senators either have been or will be elected this month, making the total score of January seventeen senators, and no end of blasted hopes.

The twelve elections that occur on the eventful Tuesday of this week are, however, the engrossing themes in political circles. Let us, therefore, run them over, beginning at the head of the list. Mr. Bayard's term expires, and as the legislature of Delaware contains only one republican, the re-election of this accomplished statesman is a foregone conclusion. In Florida there is a nominal democratic majority of four, but it is impossible to predict what the result will be, as all manner of intrigues are reported. There are rumors of a bargain, by which Governor Stearns is to go to the senate, and the democrats obtain the governorship and control of the state. The contest in Tennessee is very active and bitter. The two leading candidates are Gov. Brown and Andy Johnson. The chances incline toward a third candidate, who is not at present very prominent. The withdrawal of Mr. Voorhees from the Indiana contest leaves Joseph E. McDonald an easy winner, an able and popular democrat. In Massachusetts the republicans have about eighty majority, but no caucus will bind them, and another scrub race is sure to ensue. Mr. Dawes will probably start out as the leading candidate. No one can foretell the result. The democrats are ready to unite on Charles Francis Adams, General Banks or any other liberal. Chandler has secured the caucus nomination in Michigan, but about fifteen republicans refused to attend his little caucus, and they may succeed in throwing him overboard on Tuesday. We wish them success. In Minnesota Ramsay's chance is the best. Gen. Thayer has the inside track in Nebraska. Francis Kernan, one of the purest and ablest statesmen in the country, will succeed Gov. Fenton of New York. William A. Wallace is the caucus nominee and probable choice of the democratic legislature of Pennsylvania. In Wisconsin the republicans have thirty three majority, and the state is agitated from one to the other by the senatorial question. It is believed, however, that the disreputable Carpenter will be his own successor through the much abused caucus system.

The senatorial elections will certainly result in a gain of nine democratic senators, and the new senate will proabably stand forty-four republicans, twenty-eight democrats, and two independents. The terms of 24 more senators expire in 1877—15 republicans and 9 democrats. A loss of eight would put the republicans in a minority. Present majorities indicate a loss of nine. For the new house seventeen members remain to be chosen, of whom the democrats will certainly get ten. This will give the democracy 66 majority over all, and joined to the independents 78 majority over the republicans. The white house and the senate will be controlled by the people as soon as the peaceful revolution can complete its course.

A German History of the Confederate Army.

Major Scheibert, who served in the ... ed, under the auspices of the general staff bureau of the German empire, a concise narrative of the military operations of the confederacy. No English translation of the book has appeared, and its full German title is: "Der Burgerkrieg in den Nordamerikanischen Staaten militarisch beleuchtet fur den deutschen Offizier Von J. Scheibert, Major, Berlin: Mittler, 1874."

The author's avowed object is to give his brother officers a compact narrative and critical observations, that will make plain the professional points involved in the contest. Political questions are foreign to his purpose, and yet, very unlike the Count of Paris he does full justice to the south. He believes that the weight of military ability was on its side. He seems to consider Gen. J. E. B. Stuart the model cavalry officer, and the movements of his corps and of the cavalry service of the confederacy occupy a considerable portion of the six extended essays that form the book. Major Scheibert evidently does not hold Munchausen Sheridan and his command in very high esteem.

His judgment makes Lee, Jackson Sherman, Grant and Stuart the great soldiers of the war; and while all receive extended notices, the warmth of his admiration is reserved for Lee, the peerless soldier, "the true hero of the great epic known as the American war." He pronounces him great as a soldier, still greater as a man. Brought up to richer fare and better expectations, says Major Scheibert, than almost any man of the host he led, he was the simplest of all in his surroundings; but when a stranger was entertained, the honor was felt to be so great that it effectually made amends for the scantiness of the fare.

In an article of this dimension, it is impossible to convey a full idea of the valuable nature of the book. It intelligently and fairly presents the history of the war abroad, and especially in the mighty empire that now dominates Europe. The book should be translated into English, and republished in this country. One of the great publishing houses of the metropolis should secure an excellent translation at once. It would assuredly find a place in every considerable library of the south.

Our Distribution and Concert.

We are gratified to state that our subscribers, now that no further postponement will occur, are sending their remittances by every mail. Yesterday the business manager had scarcely time to leave the office for his meals. As long as there remained a probability of postponement, many delayed. The distribution certainly comes off at DeGive's opera house without further postponement for any cause. In connection a grand concert will be given, one of the best ever enjoyed in Atlanta. To this all subscribers entitled to the privilege of the gift distribution, will be admitted free. Others will be charged admission, the proceeds going to the Methodist and Baptist orphan homes.

We appeal to our subscribers, one and all, to send their dues by return mail. We hope those whose subscriptions do not expire till February will remit their renewals and secure cards. There is no time now to lose. This is the last chance, for it is our last distribution. We shall give away nearly five thousand dollars, two thousand in money, with several magnificent pianos, gold and silver watches, and many other valuable articles. All shall be awarded faithfully and in public. The subscribers of The Constitution will not again have the opportunity thus presented. We shall have to close our books promptly before the time of distribution, so that it is necessary to forward subscriptions at once. Bear in mind the postage.

The deposits in the Massachusetts saving's banks increased over fourteen million dollars last year, and now stand at the grand total of $217,452,120. Why is it that Atlanta has no bank for savings? The legislature is in session. Will not some patriotic citizen in whom the people have entire confidence, take the lead in securing a charter under which a bank for savings can be organized on the right plan? It would be capable of more good than any other charitable institution in the city. It would lead to the independence of many who would otherwise remain dependent. It would turn indifferent citizens into patriots. It would prove a blessing to our people, to the city, and to its promoters. We appeal to Campbell Wallace, in behalf of the people, to take the lead.

Gov. Taylor, of Wisconsin, after a brief introduction concerning Louisiana affairs, says:

"I do not wish to prejudge the facts; but, if authority exists in any branch of the federal government for what appears to be assumed by the recent proceedings in the state of Louisiana, and in the extraordinary proposals of the lieutenant general of the United States army in his dispatches from New Orleans, I believe the time has come for all of us to bury the partizan spirit in a common effort to preserve our constitutional sovereignty and inherited liberties of the American people."

The legislature is now thoroughly organized, or will be in a few days, and we sincerely trust that it will get to its work in earnest, not wasting the first part of the session and then rushing things at the end, or prolonging the time. The Constitution, as a guardian of the people's interests, shall promptly hold their representatives to a strict accountability, and hence this note of warning is now sounded.

The corn crop of 1874 is only a little over 800 millions bushels, or about 120 million bushels less than than the crop of the previous year. The farmers of Georgia who possess full cribs of corn, have reason to bless the day they decided to raise enough corn for their own consumption. Experience, which is a good teacher, will eventually teach their neighbors the same lesson.

The southern daily press should enter a united protest agaist their treatment by the agent of the associated press in the matter of the great New York meeting on Louisiana. We were almost sent nothing. Whether this thing is done in the interest of the New York papers or for other cause, it should be summarily stopped, and the southern press should see to it.

The sale of the splendid real estate property postponed on account of the wretched weather for the last three weeks, occurs on Tuesday. The advertisement states that there will be no further postponement. It is needless to speak of the value of this property. It is the best in the city. The lots are superb.

The Augusta cotton mills are eclipsed, in the matter of huge dividends, by one of a company which has worked an old iron mine at Salisbury, Connecticut, for over one hundred and fifty years. It has just declared a dividend of 115 per cent.

Unless the republicans succeed in squelching the debate in the senate on the Louisiana question, Senators Norwood, Johnston, Stevenson, Merrimon and Thurman are yet to speak. Let the debate go on.

Our exchanges will oblige us by giving notice that our distribution and concert occurs at DeGives' opera house on Jan.

Gordon on the Cessation of Federal Interference.

(Special Telegram to The Constitution.)

Washington, Jan. 16, 1875.

Senator Gordon has been addressed a note by the New York Herald, asking what would be the result if the federal government ceased to interfere in the affairs of Georgia, and left the state and its people to manage and regulate

THEIR OWN LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Gordon replied: "In the midst of an excited debate I have only the time to say that such course by the general government would be in the interest of peace, of order, of the domestic happiness of both races, of a restored peace and of the recognition of every right guaranteed by the constitution to every citizen.

GOING BACK ON HIS FRIENDS.

Grant nominated Gen. Manley, of Tennessee, for the Equador mission a few days since, but withdraws it. Manley is of the Longstreet stamp.

[Special to The Constitution.]

Washington, January 16, 1875.

A bill has passed the house, but has yet to be acted on by the senate, directing the secretary of war to effect a settlement with the states that have overdrawn their quotas under the law for arming the militia. While the arms have been properly expended the account against the state will be wiped out, but where arms have been used a settlement will be demanded. When all the accounts have been squared, the regular quotas will be issued as heretofore. Georgia, fortunately, is on the credit side of the ledger. She has $21,478 45 due her. The total number of muskets, rifles and carbines issued to Georgia under the law of April 23, 1808, for arming and equipping the militia, from 1808 to April 15, 1874, is 16,778. Georgir's annual quota under the existing law is $4,927 82. General Young is preparing a bill, which he will introduce at an early day, for increasing the annual quotas of all the states. This bill will make Georgia's quota about $7,500.

THE GEORGIA DELEGATION SLANDERED.

The members of the Georgia delegation who voted against Holman's anti-subsidy resolutions, are very indignant at the statement of the Washington correspondent of an Atlanta paper to the effect that Tom Scott had them all in his pocket. They voted in accordance with the instructions of the Georgia legislature, and regard it as an outrage that they should be attacked for so doing, through a democratic paper by a pronounced radical, who is secretary of Ananias Hays, otherwise known as "Side-meat Charley." They talk of preparing a card on the subject for publication in The Constitution.

THE CONNASAUGA AND COOSAWATTEE.

Gen. Young, who has heretofore been so successful in securing appropriations for the Oostanaula river, is now directing his attention to obtaining an appropriation of $12,000 for the improvement of the Connasauga and Coosawattee rivers, recommended in Capt. Overman's report. He has introduced the necessary bill, which was referred to the committee on commerce, and this week he will appear before the committee with Gen. Tilton, who has charge of the government work on the Oostanaula and urge the addition of this appropriation to the river and harbor bill. The estimates for the improvements of rivers and harbors amount to over thirteen million dollars, but they will be cut down down to three and one-half millions, and in this reduction the south will suffer most.

RAMSEY'S CHANCES.

St. Paul, January 16.—Ramsey's nomination to the senate is doubtful. Some republicans bolted the caucus, and a sufficient number of democrats smuggled in to make mischief.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

The senate caucus this morning ordered that the discussion of Louisiana affairs be closed.

The habeas corpus for Irwin is partially argued, and the prisoner has been recommitted. There will be a further hearing Monday.

The proceedings in the senate to-day were unimportant. There was no session of the house.

Texas, we are glad to hear, is becoming a hog-exporting state. About 10,000 hogs will be shipped from San Antonia to St. Louis this season. If Georgia would simply cease to be a hog-importing state, we would all have reason to be thankful. Now that we are beginning to grow the corn that we consume, we should also begin to make the meat that we need.

Subscribers from a distance and other parties wishing to be present at our distribution and concert can make their arrangements to come at the time appointed, as will be no postponement.

Prussia Against Spain.

[By telegraph to The Constitution.]

Berlin, January 16.—When the additional vessels ordered to be sent to the northern coast of Spain shall have arrived there, the total amount of the German fleet in those waters will consist of fifty guns with combined horse power of 6,800. The Daily News publishes a dispatch from Hendaye, which states that the German man-of-war Nautilus landed one hundred men at Serang on the Spanish coast who occupied the place after a short resistance.

The Two Kings of Siam.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

London, January 16.—Intelligence has been received here that a rupture has occurred between the first and second kings of Siam. They are farther and son, respectively. The latter took refuge in the British consulate at Bangkok. He has disbanded his forces and declines to to appeal to arms. The British gunboat has left Singapore for Bangkok to protect the interests of her majestys subjects.

Cotton—Volume III—No. 20.

The receipts this week are 95,183 bales, compared with 159,000 last year, and 134,000 the year before.

It is likely the receipts for next week will be about 100,000 bales, compared with 158,000 last year, and 134,000 the year before, and the receipts at the interior towns 25,000 bales, compared with 39,000 last year, and 26,000 the year before.

WEATHER.

The thermometer has averaged 33 degrees at noon; clear and cold two days; cloudy, sleeting and raining five days. Two days the ground was covered with sleet. Rain-fall for the week .66 of an inch.

The same week last year the thermometer was 43 degrees at noon; clear and cool five days; cloudy and rainy two days. Rain-fall for the week .88 of an inch. The same week year before last, the thermometer was 53 degrees at noon; clear and pleasant three days; and cloudy and cool four days. Rain-fall for the week 1.25 of an inch.

The receipts in this city last year were 6,100 bales for four weeks after this date; after which ran down very small, only about 450 bales a week. The price is just the same as last year. Then the price ranged from 13½ to 13¾ for the next eight weeks, after which there was a gradual rise for two months.

RECEIPTS.

The daily receipts at all ports for the next week, for the past four years, are as follows:

	1871	1872	1873	1874
Saturday	22,935	17,477	15,322	23,524

NEW YORK.

This market has been firm for spots, but very quiet Sales 6,000 bales, no change in the price. Contracts have been quiet and irm, with small sales and no change in the price, except the daily fluctuations. This dull steady market will not continue long. If the weather clears up and becomes pleasant again, which is likely and as the rivers of the west are now in good boating order, the receipts will increase again, and then we shall have a more active market both for spots and contracts with lower prices.

LIVERPOOL.

This market has again been affected with a hitch in prices which has characterized it all the fall and winter. The sales are very large again this week, but no change in the price. The large stock and free offerings, with scarcely any speculative demand check all attempts to raise the price. We do not expect much change either way for two months to come, after which it is likely a brisk demand may carry the price above 8 pence.

RECEIPTS AND PRICES.

It is a surprise to almost every one that with such small receipts the price does not continue to rise. We are surprised that the receipts are even as large as they have been. For two days this week the earth has not only frozen, but covered with a solid sheet of ice; so that it was dangrous for man or beast to travel, and all kinds of business came nearly to a stand still. Most persons feel that this sudden dropping of the receipts is natural, and that as soon as the obstacles are removed, we shall have larger receipts again. This feeling, together with the very large stocks everywhere, and the continued dullness of all branches of trade, prevents speculation, and spinner everywhere have good stocks of cotton on hand and do not feel uneasy about small receipts for a few weeks.

BOMBAY.

The India crop for the years 1873–4 was a large one, the total receipts at Bombay for the year ending December 31st, being 300,000 bales larger than the year before. The promise of the present crop is also very good, and the receipts are coming in large compared with the year before. The receipts at Bombay for the last three weeks in December were 51,000 bales compared with 29,000 bales the year before, about 80 per cent. more. The season in India for planting cotton is between two and three months later than ours, as they cannot plant until after the rain season commences, which is usually from the 10th to the 15th of June.

NASHVILLE.

We have been asked: "What do you think of the circular just issued by the committee of the cotton exchange of Nashville, Tennessee?" In answer we reply, we know the gentlemen of the committee, and believe them to be honest in their views, but the effect of the drouth of last summer in Tennessee and around Nashville particularly, together with their interest, has warped their judgment and blinded their eyes to the other portions of the cotton growing country. Their estimate is that 60 per cent. of the crop had been received up to December 31st, and that the crop would be only 3,170,000 bales, whilst our estimate for the same time was 53 per cent. and a total crop of 4,350,000. Here is only 7 per cent. difference, which will not make more than 300,000 bales difference in the total crop, but the difference in our total figures is 880,000 bales Here is a very great error somewhere, either in our calculation or theirs, now as to the per cent. They say they have a report from ten of the most reliable and best posted merchants in each place, as to the proportion of their crops received to December 31st. We give in the table below, their figures and our own, made up to the same time.

	Nashville.	Atlanta.
Galveston	61	52
Mobile	60	61
Savannah	62	70
Charleston	63	62
New Orleans		51
Wilmington		56
Norfolk		54
New York		36
All others		38

It will be seen from the above figures that the average of theirs, as far as they give them, and ours are exactly the same. They give Galveston as having received 9 per cent. more than we do, and Savannah 8 per cent. less. But their great mistake is in not giving all the ports and in mixing the interior towns with the out ports, and the average is only 53 per cent.

For it is well known that New Orleans, Norfolk and the northern ports, receive the largest portion of the total receipts upon the first of April, and this adds materially to the amount of the crop. The mistake in counting the per cent. of the receipts at the interior towns, with the out ports, is in this—that there are 150,000 bales already received and counted there, which will be received at the out-ports, even if the towns do not get another bale.

We give below a table of their figures and our own for the same time, for the interior towns:

	Nashville.	Atlanta
Augusta	73	70
Macon	75	83
Columbus	78	70
Montgomery	75	86
Selma	75	72
Memphis	62	60

These figures show an average of 73 per cent. for theirs and 73½ per cent. for ours.

The committee are not quite correct in the averages given for the past four years. The actual figures are as follows: Also we give these figures to show the errors:

	1870	1871	1872	1873
Atlanta	40.5	54.5	47.9	50.4

They say "no one that we know of, comprehended the extent that the crop of 1870-'71 was held back," and as late as February 11th, 1871, B. F. Nourse, a long crop man, formed the estimates at millions bales. We will inform these Nashville gentlemen that in January, 1871, the writer of these papers made an estimate of the crop and published it in a circular which was then published in New York city. That estimate was 4,350,000 bales. Of course we were laughed at, but the most of those that laughed lost money enough to make them cry, in the next two months.

PROSPECTS.

There is still a plenty of cotton in the interior and those who are buying contracts for the summer months will have to wait a long time before they get their money back.

GEORGIA IN THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

A Tilt Between Gordon and Logan, in the Course of Which the Latter is Upset.

Gen. Logan resumed his long tirade against the people of the south on Thursday, by reading from the election returns of Georgia, and said that in the fourth district there were but eighteen republican votes out of a population of 64,000. There was but one explanation for this fact, and that was that threats made toward the colored people made them afraid to exercise the rights given them by the constitution and laws of the country.

He then sent to the clerk's desk and had read an editorial from a paper published in Atlanta, Ga., commenting on the administration policy in regard to New Orleans, saying that it was probable that a fool like Sheridan might ornament a lamp-post in that city, and further calling upon the people of New Orleans to begin fighting, as the time had come for them to strike.

Mr. Gordon (Dem., Ga.) said he had no doubt that the editor of that paper was sincere in all he said. He had no doubt he reflected the sentiment of his own heart, but he did not reflect the sentiment of the people of Georgia, nor of the democratic party of that state. He did not belong to the democratic party, and did not publish a democratic paper. He claimed to run an independent paper, and did not support the democratic candidate at the last election, but, on the contrary, supported the opposition. He (Gordon) would like to have read a telegram from the governor of his state, who was a democrat.

Mr. Logan said he could not yield to have the telegram read. The senator would have ample opportunity to read it. Resuming his argument, he said he had do doubt that there were many democrats in the south who would like to see Sheridan hung to a lamp post. He cared not whether the editor of that paper reflected the sentiment of the people of Georgia or not; such language had its effect upon the people of Louisiana, who were easily excited.

He next referred to Alabama, and had read a letter of Judge Kiel's in reference to the shooting of his son. He (Mr. Logan) admitted that there were murders in the north, but the northern people punished murderers. There had been several hanged in that section within the past two or three months, and others were in the penitentiary. The difference was that in the north murderers were hung or sent to state prison, while in the south they were not even indicted. Judge Kiel's son was murdered while in the company of his father, who was guarding a ballot-box. There were no such murders at the north. There might be frauds there, but men were never murdered for political opinions.

He next read from an Alabama paper to the effect that Robert Read, a colored member of the legislature from Sumter county, was summoned to Mobile as a witness in a case. After he testified he was set upon by three white leaguers and assaulted. Pistols were drawn by them and he had to take refuge in the court house for safety.

He then spoke of outrages in the south at some length, and said the stench of outrage, murder, and pillage went up to heaven and cried out for revenge for these innocent victims. He sent to the clerk's desk and had read the report of Gen. Sheridan to the secretary, dated Jan. 10, 1875, stating that 3,500 persons had been murdered in Louisiana since 1866, and argued that these murders were committed by men banded together for the purpose, and they were banditti.

Mr. Gordon said Senator Logan had made a remark when he (Gordon) was out of the chamber in regard to the majority in one of the districts of Georgia. He (Gordon) desired to say that there was no republican candidate in that district; therefore there could be no republican votes. There was but one candidate there, and he was a democrat.

Mr. Logan said he referred to the fourth district.

Mr. Gordon replied that that was the district he referred to.

Mr. Logan inquired how it was in the eighth district.

Mr. Gordon replied that there was but one candidate there, the Hon. A. H. Stephens.

Mr. Logan said he only gave the facts as they appeared from the record. Of course they were open to explanation. He inquired of the senator how about county candidates? Were there not county candidates who were republicans?

Mr. Gordon replied in the negative. The county officers were elected the year preceding.

Mr. Logan thereupon dropped Georgia affairs, like a hot potato, and took up other branches of his slanderous speech.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

Fish Culture in Georgia.

It is not proposed in this communication to enter upon the discussion of fish culture in all of the interesting points embraced in the subject. It is a fruitful theme, and one in which every intelligent citizen of Georgia is more or less indirectly concerned, and to the serious consideration of which we would respectfully and earnestly invite the attention of the members of our general assembly, now in session. We would direct their thoughts to the practicability of the subject, as it is no longer speculation or a fruitless theory. It is an enterprise that calls for legislative action, and one that will justify a liberal appropritaion of money from the state to put into practical operation. We claim that the rivers of Georgia offer as great inducement for the profitable culture of fish, as the waters of any other state, and that what has been accomplished in other sections can be accomplished in Georgia. The economy of stocking barren streams with fish, has been fully demonstrated, and the legislatures of several states have voted liberal appropriations and appointed practical men to superintend the enterprise.

"In 1867 some millions of shad spawn were placed in Connecticut river, and in 1870 the catch was without parallel in late years, upwards of 30,000 being taken in the spring of 1871. At Holyoke, 450 were taken at one haul." "The results are so satisfactory," says The American Horticultural Annual for 1871, that upwards of 30,000,000 of fry have been placed in the Connecticut river, at an expense of only $500 to the state.

The streams of several of the western states have also been stocked with fish-spawn, and the yield has been most gratifying. A company was formed only a short time ago in Belleville, Ill., with a cash capital of $6,000, and a tract of land consisting of fifty acres for the propagation of speckled trout, black bass, salmon and other varieties, the success of which there cannot be a shadow of doubt. The enterprise has proven a grand success in California.

Fearing that we may weary our readers, we will close this hasty article with a quotation from the remarks of Hon. R. B. Roosevelt, before the legislature of the state of New York, in 1872:

"The relative fertility of the water and the land is altogether in favor of the water. An acre of land will produce corn enough to support a human being, but an acre of water will produce enough to support several persons, and could readily be made, with proper aid, to sustain the lives of many more. The former requires manuring, working, planting, and harvesting; the latter requires merely harvesting; and that, where the fish are sufficiently abundant, is hardly a labor at at all. While the yield from the land is reasonably large, the profit is exceedingly small. What is the net result of this, compared with the natural increase of fish grown in abundance, almost without effort, finding their own food, and finally taken in some net, which does its own fishing, while its owner is sleeping?"

Finally, we must be permitted to say that we must conclude without discussing the plans, fish as food, and other interesting points which crowd upon our mind.

The enterprise is richly worthy the attention of the citizens of Georgia, and when once undertaken, the results will ...

What is possible for others is equally possible for us. Should the subject meet with favor, your correspondent will hold himself in readiness to make other statement of facts which may lead to the inauguration of the new industry here proposed. Respectfully, &c.,

GILT EDGE LOTS

AND

STORE PROPERTY!!

WILL be sold on Tuesday, January 19 1875, at 11 o'clock in the morning, that splendid and only remaining lot with railroad privilege, 25X100, situated on Alabama street. This lot has a brick wall on each side, and can therefore be improved cheaply and quick. The heavy trade is centering in this locality and capitalists who want high-paying stores, or parties wanting to do business with the advantage of railroad freight in the building, should look after the unsold lot of property formerly belonging to the estate. Terms—½ cash; balance in 6 and 12 months, with 10 per cent. interest.

2d—Also, one-half undivided interest (with J. E. Butler) in the well built granite front store, 25X120, next door to W. M. & R. J. Lowry's bank. Terms—½ cash; balance in 6 and 12 months—10 per cent.

3d—That superb and last desirable corner lot in the centre of the city, 30X100 to a 10 foot alley, corner of Broad and Alabama streets—(where else can be bought an unimproved corner lot?)—on the highest point of ground in the city, accessible from both sides of the railroad. For a retail dry goods store this is the spot of ground to attract customers from all parts of the city. Remember this is the LAST CORNER that can be bought. Terms—½ cash; balance 6 and 12 months—10 per cent.

4th—Lot No, 1 on plat, 23A100, fronting on Broad street, and adjoing the Herald building. This locality needs no commendations. It is in the right place. Terms—One-half cash; balance 30 and 60 days—10 per cent.

5th—Lots Nos. 3 and 4 on Broad street, south of Hunter street, each 25X100 to a 10 foot alley. These lots are especially favored in locality for the country trade with cotton wagons—right in the way—near the cotton warehouse. Terms—½ cash; balance in 30 and 60 days.

6th—Also, a 2-story brick store on Mitchell street, adjoining Major W. H. Brotherton's, 25X100 with 12 yard in the rear, occupied by Ligon & Reeves. Terms—One-half cash; balance in 6 and 12 months—10 per cent.

As a whole this is an especially attractive bill of fare, positively the very best unsold unimproved lots in the city, and adapted to the wonts of different classes of trade.

The goods are not at all injured, and the prices asked for them are cheap beyond conception.

Read Captain Keely's advertisement in another column, and call and be convinced.

Judge Cunningham.—We invite attention to the law card of the Hon. John D. Cunningham, in another column. Judge Cunningham was, for six years, judge of the city court of Montgomery, Alabama, a court having a civil jurisdiction in the city and county of Montgomery, and exactly the same criminal jurisdiction which our superior court has in this city and county, and if we judge from the complimentary resolutions of the Montgomery bar, upon his retirement from the bench, as well as the expression of the leading papers of the state, he discharged the duties of that high office in a creditable manner.

Don Pasquale—It is a regret that a larger audience had not been present at DeGive's last night, to have enjoyed the charming manner Don Pasquale was rendered by the Phillips troupe. The wonderful contralto voice of Miss Phillips, with its great degree of flexibility was highly enjoyed in her Norina. Her low notes are exquisitely rich, and charms the ear with its soft and mellow tones. The duet with Mr. Karl, "Say Once Again I Love Thee," showed off both voices finely, and received an encore. "Oh! Summer Night!" by Mr. Karl, was deservedly encored. Signor Bacelli impersonated the character of Don Pasquale in a droll and masterly manner. The terror voice of Mr. Karl was much admired in his Ernesto. There is a general regret that a larger

ROBERT JOHNSON.

Arrested and put in Jail for Stealing.

Fresh Troubles on Account of his Performances in the Postoffice.

The negro postoffice clerk, Robert Johnson, whose trial before the commissioner for abstracting letters from the carrier's boxes was duly reported in The Constitution is again in trouble. It will be remembered that the warrant upon which Johnson was tried also charged that he stole certain goods, such as a shawl, dress pattern, etc. These articles were introduced in the evidence, but the commissioner quashed the portion of the warrant relating to them and required the defendant to give a bond of $1000 on the charge of abstracting letters alone. The bond was given and Johnson was released.

Since the trial, Major George B. Chamberlain, who is in the detective service of the government, has had the case in his hands, and has been endeavoring to secure sufficient evidence to authorize him in arresting Johnson on the further charge of stealing goods from the postoffice. It is not known that Johnson took very many letters, but it is known that in his trunk were found a miscellaneous collection of articles and dry goods sufficient to start a small store. These are all believed to have been stolen from the mails, and hence constitute Johnson's gravest offense.

The result of Major Chamberlain's efforts culminated yesterday in his swearing out the following

AFFIDAVIT:

United States of America, northern district of Georgia, before me William B. Smith a commissioner duly appointed by the circuit court of the United States of America for the northern district of Georgia, personally came George P. Chamberlin, who being duly sworn, deposeth and saith that Robert Johnson, in said northern district of Georgia, on the 26th of December A. D., 1874, being then and there a person employed in a department of the postal service, in this that he, the said Robert Johnson, was then and there employed as newspaper mailing clerk in the postoffice in Atlanta, Georgia, in said northern district, did then and there steal and take one shawl of the value of five dollars, out of a packet, said packet being then and there in the postoffice aforesaid, in Atlanta, said packet then and there having come into the possession of him, the said Robert Johnson in the regular cause of his official duties, as such newspaper mailing clerk as aforesaid, contrary to the laws of the United States

GEO. B. CHAMBERLIN.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 16th day of January, 1875.

W. B. SMITH.

United States Commissioner for the northern district of Georgia.

THE ARREST AND COMMITMENT.

Upon this affidavit, the commissioner duly issued his warrant and it was placed in the hands of Deputy Marshal C. B. Blacker. This officer found and arrested Johnson about three o'clock yesterday afternoon. The arrest was made very quietly and did not become generally known among the negroes, so that when the prisoner reached the commissioner's room, where he was at once carried, nobody was present but a few officers of court. It was found impossible to commence the trial of a case of such gravity at that late hour, and after some discussion Johnson was committed to jail to remain until next Monday. On that day his trial upon this second charge will take place. The prisoner was unable to give any bond which the commissioner felt authorized to receive, and hence had to be locked up.

OUR DISTRIBUTION.

The Great Concert.

The Terms of Admission.

Receipts at the Door to be Given to the Methodist and Baptist Orphan Homes.

The distribution of gifts to our subscribers will occur at DeGive's opera house, on the night of the 30th. Five thousand dollars will be awarded, including one thousand dollars in gold, one thousand dollars in greenbacks, a splendid $,000 Chickering square grand piano; still another beautiful piano, and a large number of other presents, among them the famous Durham taurus, so often mentioned in another Atlanta paper, and our right and title to which we shall pass over to the fortunate winner.

THE OPERA HOUSE

will be well lighted and warmed. As several thousand people are expected to attend, and the house will be filled, policemen will be on duty to preserve perfect order. As announced, there will be on the occasion, a rare programme having been prepared by the splendid Gate City band in full orchestra. We do not hesitate in saying that this part of the entertainment will be as fine as any since the Theodore Thomas orchestra was in Atlanta additions to the programme, probably singing.

A GRAND CONCERT

THE TERMS OF ADMISSION.

All subscribers holding cards will be admitted free. To others there will be an admission fee of fifty cents. All the expenses of the opera house and of the concert will be defrayed by the proprietors of this journal, and the total admission receipts will be divided between the Baptist Orphan Home in Atlanta and the Methodist Orphan Home near Decatur. The authorities of those institutions have been so notified. Tickets of admission will be ready in a few days.

Vote of Thanks.

At a meeting of the Twelfth Night Brotherhood, held January 3, 1875, the following resolution and vote of thanks were adopted:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to draft a series of thanks to those gentlemen who aided in furthering the interests and welfare of the brotherhood upon the occasion of their recent festivities.

In compliance with the above, the undersigned, as a committee, have the pleasure of returning the thanks of the Twelfth Night Mystic Brotherhood to Messrs. E Chamberlin, O. H. Jones, E. W. English, E. P. Howell, and F. H. Ketner, for voluntarily advancing the funds to procure the costumes for the display made January 6, 1875.

To The Constitution, News, Herald and Commonwealth the brotherhood are under especial obligations for the energetic manner in which they published numerous edicts and proclamations, all of which was done gratuitously, and in a manner which aided materially in making the occasion a grand success.

Thanks are returned to the chamber of commerce for the use of their hall on frequent occasions; also, to Messrs. Lowe, Douglass and Dallas for store roomfurnished the New Orleans costumer; and those gentlemen, personally, who, with untiring zeal accommodated the guests of the brotherhood in the exhibition of costumes.

Reply to Vox Populi.

HAMPTON, GA., January 16, 1875.

Editors Constitution: We thought at first we would not notice the sickly effusion under the title of "Indignant Letter" and over the signature of "Vox Populi," but it has caused some controversy and misunderstanding, which necessitates a truthful statement from us regarding the proceedings of the council on the night in question.

We have ascertained that its parent is a feeble sprout of the law who located here a few months since, and not finding sufficient employment for his active brain has egotistically and presumptuously delivered himself of the article. claiming to represent a people with whom he has a very slight acquaintance.

The proceedings concerning the liquor license question are as follows: A few weeks ago there was a petition going the rounds directed to the ordinary of the county, asking him not to issue any more license, but neither this nor any other petition was before the council as stated. There is no section in our code prohibiting the issuing of licenses, and until it is repealed we consider it simply our duty to act as we have done, we therefore ordered the clerk to issue license to the applicants for one quarter.

Very respectfully,
Thos. G. Barnett, Pres. Coun.
Isham G. Crawford,
William Burt,
James W. Derick.

The new house of Evans, Peak & Co., wholesale dry goods importers and jobbers, 380 and 382 Broadway, New York, opened on the first of January, 1875, with a new and extensive stock of goods, complete in every department. (Evans is T. W. Evans, of the old firm of Evans, Gardner & Co.; Peak is of the old firm of Peak, Opdike & Co. This house forms as strong combination of business capacity, popularity and money as can be found in New York city. Mr M. D. L. McCroskey is connected with this house and informs his friends and customers throughout the state, that he will be in New York by the first of February, ready to serve them. Mr. McCroskey has been in the dry goods business in New York since the close of the war; is familiar with, and understands the wants of every locality in Georgia. Mr. McCroskey has Georgia's interest at heart, as he brings his money here for investment, and we hope will receive a liberal patronage in future as in the past. The money our merchants spend with him comes back to Georgia.

THE STARKE HABEAS CORPUS CASE.

Decision Reserved Until Monday.

The habeas corpus case brought by M. B. Starke against Daniel and Martha Clower, for the possession of his infant daughter, Rowena Starke, was tried before the ordinary yesterday. Considerable evidence was introduced on both sides. Mrs. Martha Clower, the grandmother of the little girl, swore to the dissipated habits of the movant. That she had permitted him to him to marry her daughter, believing that he was a worthy young man. That the unhappiness of their married life had been due to the movant's habits of dissipation and to his violence. That he had been unfaithful to his marriage vow and maltreated his wife to such an extent that she was compelled to flee to witness' house for protection. She brought with her the child, who was then about a month old. Subsequently her daughter procured a divorce, and not long afterwards died. She strongly asserted her love for and ability to take care of the child. Other evidence was introduced of a similar nature which we do not give, as it is needless to unveil further this story of marital unhappiness. The little girl, now six years old, was placed on the stand and reiterated her preference to live with her grandmother.

The defendant introduced evidence, showing that he was now a sober, industrious man, and able to take care of his daughter. Also, that he had married again, and had a home in Jackson county. The afternoon was spent in the argument. Speeches were made by B. H. Hill, jr., and Mr. Silman, of Jackson county, for Starke; and by W. F. Wright and D. P. Hill, for the Clowers.

The ordinary reserved his decision until Monday morning, to examine the law.

THE AIR-LINE RAILROAD CASE

Correspondence Between Mr. Fisher and Colonel Grant.

Petition to Judge Hopkins, etc.

Case Postponed to Next Friday.

According to announcement the Air Line railroad case came up before Judge Hopkins at chambers yesterday upon a petition made by Mr. Fisher to His honor to revoke his order appointing Col. Grant receiver.

In order that our readers may understand fully the legal attitude of the important motion now pending before Judge Hopkins, we give first the substance of a petition filed by Mr. John H. Fisher to have Col. Grant attached for contempt. This petition was addressed to Judge Erskine of the United States court, and filed January 4th, 1875.

THE ATTACHMENT PROCEEDING.

Referring to the original bondholder's bill against the Atlanta & Richmond Air-line railroad company, Mr. Fisher says that by an order made in said cause, on the 9th day of December, 1874, by the Honorable William B Woods, circuit judge, he was appointed receiver of the entire property and effects of said company, and was required to reduce the same to actual possession as soon as might be.

That he accepted the appointment, and on the 23d day of January, 1874, filed in the clerk's office the bond required by the order. That upon inquiry he learned that most, if not all of said property and effects which were in the state of Georgia, were held and controlled by Lemuel P. Grant, of Atlanta. That on the 26th day of December, 1874, he went in person to the office of the Atlanta & Richmond Air-line railway company, and informed the persons who seemed to be in possession that he claimed the possession as receiver. He declined to yield to him, and referred him to Colonel Grant under whom they said they were acting. He then went to Mr. Grant, in the city of Atlanta on the same day, and presented to him a copy of the code appointing him receiver duly certified by the clerk of said court, and a certificate of the clerk that the bond required in the order had been given, and made the following demand in writing for the possession:

To Col. L. P. Grant, Atlanta, Ga.:

Sir—Having been appointed receiver in the above stated cause, and having the bond and security required of me as such, I hereby respectfully request that you surrender to me the possession of all the property and effects of the Atlanta and Richmond Air-Line railway company, in your possession or under your control.

That you may be fully advised of my authority in the premises, I beg to hand you herewith a certified copy of the order under which I act, together with a certificate of the clerk of the court, showing that bond and security have been given conformably to the order.

Should you wish to verify any further particulars in respect to the cause above stated, or to the proceedings which have been had therein, I refer you to the files and records in the office of said clerk in Atlanta.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
John K. Fisher, Receiver.
Atlanta, Ga, Dec. 26, 1874.

That in reply to the foregoing, he received on the same day a refusal from Mr. Grant, in writing, of which the following is a copy, to-wit:

ATLANTA, December 26, 1874.

John H. Fisher, Esq., Kimball House, Atlanta:

Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of this instant, requesting that I surrender to you the possession of all the property and effects of the Atlanta and Richmond Air-Line railway company in my possession and under my control, I have the honor to state that I am in possession of said railway and property in Georgia, by virtue of an order of the Hon. John L. Hopkins, Judge of the Superior Courts of Atlanta circuit, dated November 20, 1874, appointing me receiver.

Having filed a bond, with approved securities, in the office of the superior court of Fulton county, in the penalty of $50,000 well and truly to perform the duties of said office, I can surrender said railway and property only to the court that placed me in possession.

I respectfully refer you to the court under which I hold as receiver.

Very respectfully,
L. P. Grant, Receiver.

Mr. Fisher then sets forth a number of reasons why Colonel Grant ought not to be allowed to remain in possession, and closes with the following prayer:

Wherefore your petitioner prays your honor to issue an order requiring the said Lemuel P. Grant to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt of this court, in thus obstructing your petitioner in his duty, and to show cause why he should not be compelled to surrender to petitioner all of said property herein shown to be in his possession; and to grant such order or orders as may be necessary to maintain the authority of said circuit court and the rights of your petitioner in the premises.

John H. Fisher, Receiver.

Judge Erskine took this bill under consideration and endorsed upon it his decision as follows:

In answer to the application for direction in this case, this court, acting upon judicial comity, directs that its receiver, with the aid of his counsel, apply to his Honor, the judge of the superior court of the county of Fulton, for the removal of any impediment, under the control of that court, to his taking and holding possession in pursuance of the order of this court of December 9th, 1874. John Erskine, Judge.

January 8th, 1875.

THE PETITION BEFORE JUDGE HOPKINS.

Thrown then into the superior court the 10th day of January, he presented his petition for the removal of Colonel Grant to Judge Hopkins.

After setting forth the history of the bond holders' bill and his appointment as receiver under it, also Col. Grant's refusal to get out of his way, Mr. Fisher says:

Your petitioner has ascertained that the cause in which Mr. Grant has been appointed receiver by your honor is a suit in equity in the superior court of Fulton county, brought by said railway company against Samuel B. Hoyt and others, on the 10th day of November, 1874, to protect the company's possession of part of its property in Georgia against certain sales which were charged to fraudulent. There was no prayer for receiver in said suit until made by a defendant, Thomas S. Garner, in his answer filed November 20th, 1874, on which day it was granted, without information to your honor from any party of the pendency of the suit in the United States circuit court, of the restraining order, or of the notice of motion for receiver therein.

Said Garner was not an original party to said bill, but was made defendant by amendment; and when said restraining order was issued by Judge Erskine, when he was made a party to the suit in the superior court, and when he filed said answer, he was an acting officer of the company, and subject to said restraining order, of which he well knew at the time of said answer.

He also claims that as the bondholders' bill was filed first, so the United States circuit court acquired jurisdiction of the property first, and had the right to give possession to its receiver. Also that the adverse claimants by amendments have never been made parties to the bondholders' bill. Other reasons for the removal of Grant are given, but these appear to be the strongest. Mr. Fisher closes as follows:

And he further prays that your honor will revoke the appointment of said Grant as receiver, or direct him to surrender to your petitioner the property in question, or in some other way that seems meet to your honor, remove the impediment which the said Grant interposes under the name and authority of your honor to your petitioner's performance of the duties which have been assigned him by said order of the circuit court.

This is the petition which is now pending. Yesterday, when the case was called up, Colonel M. J. Hammond, of counsel for the defence, moved to postpone, on the ground that he had not been allowed time to prepare for the trial. After discussion, this motion was granted, and the hearing set for next Friday morning.

Court then adjourned to that day.

BANQUET.

A Royal Time.

Banquet at the Kimball House in Honor of Hon. Simon Wolf.

The Concordia Association gave a banquet Friday night at the Kimball house to Hon. Simon Wolf. Among those present, we noticed, Col. Samuel Weil, Rev. Henry Gersorie, Dr. Theo. Schuman, Alderman A. Haas, J. Hirsch, J. T. Eichberg, S. Rosenfield, L. Seldner, S. L. Solmonson, Moses Frank, W. Titlebaum, M. Eisemen, and others. The banquet was a magnificent one and the entire party seemed to enjoy the savory viands, and the social enjoyment—so much so that it was after 2 o'clock before adjournment was moved.

Alderman Haas gave as a sentiment, "The centennial of 1876," and called on Hon. Simon Wolf to respond.

HON. SIMON WOLF,

in response, said in substance, that there was one item connected with the centennial that all were interested in. When the society of B'nai Brith, of which he was president, met in Chicago last year, they resolved that the Israelites should write their history, in a centennial statue, made by one of their own artists, to be unveiled in Philadelphia and presented in the name of the American Israelites to the Unites States as a token of remembrance for freedom, hospitality and generosity. No class should contribute more than the Jews, for their physical and mental emancipation has taken its rise in the past century. The Jews were in a condition to-day to survey with calmness and pride the situation. They had grown with the noblest and purest and kept pace with the most progressive. If 1776 found the Jew the genial advocate of American liberty, 1876 would find him worthy to enjoy the great fraternal freedom. In all the struggles, national and sectional, the Jew, north and south, held one common sentiment, which went from brain to heart and permeates the soul—national in sentiment and feeling. If the Jew with all his advantages has not taken a deep hold on the nation it is because he regards life as one of happiness and to be happy must be prosperous, and therefore, let alone the cohesive plunder of politics, and left to others the pleasing and painful duty of legislating for the rest. With hearts aglow we look forward to time of love and harmony when all Israelites shall sing among the choirs above in the great brotherhood of humanity.

Mr. S. L. Solomonson proposed

and called on Mr. L. Seldner to respond. Mr. Seldner said that he had known Mr. Wolf a long time, and the assemblage could not expect him to say anything bad about him, for all he knew was "goot." He is quite young yet. Among the Jews he has no superior if he has an equal. It is not possible to conceive of a more philanthropic man. I knew him when he was poor. He often forced me into a philanthrophy I didn't feel. When an applicant for charity presents itself he never enquires whether it be Jew or Gentile.

He is the champion of progress and all that is grand and noble in the world.

I wish we could honor him more than is in our power. Those who know him love him (a voice I second that motion.) If he would stay here three days he would captivate all, Jew, Gentile and Turk (a voice—especially the Turk)

Here

AN INTERESTING EPISODE,

not down in the bills accurred. Mr. Seldner turning to Mr. Wolf said: "In behalf of your friends allow me to present you with this token of their esteem, "presenting with a gold medal, having in the center a chandelier with seven arms, the symbol of light and bearing on one side the words: "From night to light the path of mankind leadeth," and two Hebrew words signifying, "Let there be light;" on the other side was engraved, "Presented to Hon. Simon Wolf, the champion of progress by his friends in Atlanta, January 15th, 1875." The medal was prepared and engraved by S. L. Solmonson, jeweler. This episode created intense applause, and was evidently a complete surprise to the distinguished lecturer.

HON. SIMON WOLF

in responding said, that though he made use of the stereotyped phrase that he was surprised, it came from his heart. He was reminded of a remark of the Volksblatt at Chicago, who, when called upon to speak declared that he was surprised, and then pulled out his speech and spoke for one hour and a half. If I fall short in giving thanks, lay not the blame on me but on Mr. Seldner, whose guest I was—or he who played the Iago to an unworthy Orthello. Age is never counted by the years that pass over a man's head. I am thirty-eight, which is comparatively a young man to Kaiser William, who is seventy-four. During all my life, but one feeling has been my guiding star—to elevate the Jew to appreciate his true worth, and to reconcile christian friends, by grasping their hands with true friendly grasp. If they would learn to know us, they would find us in every relative worthy of the highest confidence and of the purest trusts.

My ambition is not to be a representative for show. As an Israelite, I have embraced every opportunity of saying, "I am proud of being a Jew," not that there is any inherent power in the name, but from the magnetism that makes the whole world akin.

I shall continue to labor in the same direction, caring for no other epitaph than this: "Here lies a Jew, who in an humble sphere was not ungrateful to the country of his adoption, nor recreant to his people." [Great applause.]

WILLIAM TITLEBAUM,

in response to calls, made a brief and pointed speech.

COL. S. WEIL

thanked the association for the pleasure afforded him in being present, and as he was suffering from neuralgia he would have to leave. He was 50 years old, and had never in his life enjoyed an evening better.

Alderman Haas toasted

"THE PRESS,"

and called upon Col. E. Y. Clarke, managing editor of The Constitution, to respond, which he did at some length, concluding with thanks to the committee for their note of invitation, and with an expression of this pleasure upon the occasion.

ALDERMAN HAAS

being called out said he doubly felt the responsibility of his position as alderman. Council was closely watched. They were blamed often where they were blameless. If the streets were muddy or dusty they censured. "They were damned if they did, and damned if they didn't." He was the first of his race elected to municipal honors and for that reason he not only had his own honor but the honor of his race in Georgia to protect. He called upon the people to watch his course from the beginning of his official career to the close, and would defy them to put their hands on a single black spot.

HON. SIMON WOLF

in the course of a few remarks, said that the few Israelites who have figured in congress and as legislators had no necessity for investigating committees, [loud applause] one feeling caused rejoicing, and that was that his people could have a centennial of morality and virtue. If they were true in 1776, one hundred years of prosperity had not taken away their principles, and 1876 would find them rejoicing in a centennial of true and enlightened American freedom. [Continued applause.]

J. S. Eichberg proposed a sentiment that the words of the lecturer might be like seeds sown in fertile soil, and that the lecturer might see this glorious harvest.

REV. HENRY GERSONI,

in response to calls, made an eloquent and beautiful speech on "unity in deed," which was greeten with warm applause.

DR. THEO. SCHUMANN

in response to calls, spoke in German, in substance, as follows:

If I don't speak English, it is for reasons best known to you all. I wish to state that the Jews have found a new Fatherland in this country; as well as we Germans, the Jews have always adhered to the belief of an idealistic philosophy.

Our lecturer has given us to understand that the Jew has always fostered science, etc, but forgot to mention that he loves something good to eat. He wants on the other hand no temperance lodges. He is totally opposed to it but still is no drunkard. The German is not as apt to learn foreign languages as the Jew. I am sorry that all men of education and progress are not ready to join hands over religious differences. I propose a toast, that the time will come when the shibboleth will not be. "Do you believe in one undivisible God, or in "a God composed or three or four or one."

"THE LADIES"

were presposed, and Moses Franks was called on to respond, who did so in a brief speech.

At this juncture, the reporter had to leave, and was sorry of it, for sentiment, wit and merriment had just begun in earnest.

LOUISIANA.

Hon. B. Hill Asked to Deliver an Address on the Situation.

ATLANTA, GA., January 16, 1875.

Hon. B. H. Hill:

The undersigned, members of the legislature of Georgia, and your fellow-citizens of Atlanta, recognizing in yourself an adequate exponent at all times of the sentiments of fidelity to Georgia, and loyalty to the the best interests and noblest traditions of the entire union, respectfully invite an expression of your views as to the situation in Louisiana.

Should we be so fortunate as to secure your assurance of favor to this petition, we feel that we shall not only be tendering to our unhappy sister state, now throttled and pinioned by a brutal, reckless, and ignorant military tyrant and pretender, an expression of the general sympathy of Georgia through her most eloquent son, but that we shall also be the means of giving to the country a just appreciation of the perils that now menace community independence.

We recognize a special fitness in the selection of yourself to utter the indignant protest of the south to the outrages visited upon the gallant people of our sister state, in view of the statesmanlike sagacity with which, from its incipiency, you have marked out the course of federal despotism in Louisiana. We recall the exceptional wisdom with which you have frequently discussed in public the Louisiana question; and see in recent events in that state your increased titles to our admiration for your statesmanship, and our cordial esteem for you as a devoted Georgian and southron.

We respectfully urge that you name an early day upon which you will address the citizens of Atlanta, and that at your earliest leisure you address the American people, in the name of Georgia, through the medium of the press, upon the subject of their duty in the present crisis of American civil liberty.

Wm Rutherford, Thos D Wilcox, Wm J Hanson, A H Gray, C C Hammock, J C McMillan, S B Spencer, Henry Hillyer, W L Calhoun, C H Strong, J W English, W H Tuller, Geo T Fry, W B Smith, Green R Duke, T A Hammond, Carey W Styles, A C Westbrook, F T Evans, B J Lockett, J L Mathews, T J Healy, C Wesolowsky, James George, P J Strozier, J T Chappell, W O Daniel, C O Davis, John C Nicholls, D A Beaty, Jas T Alexander, R V Baldwin, W P Orme, J B Morgan, W R Hill, W B Cox, N R Fowler, R F Maddox, B A Pratte, W D Ellis, Andrew Bates, C H England, E M Berry, Miles Turpin, James Banks, C E Harman, Israel Putnam, Clarence F Low, Hoke Smith, B W Briscoe, R S Jeffries, M J Joy, W S Townsend, Lewis H Clark, Thos W Chandler, C S Solomon, J D Clark, O H Jones, John T Glenn, R J Godfrey, W P Pattillo, Stephen Bowen, Thos B Calhoun, D A Graham, Jas Marshall, W H Searcy, Jno W Murphy, H E Mass, jr., E D Graham, M A B Tatune, George L Kirkpatrick, Frank Leverett, H B Ridley, W A Quinn.

Legislative Personals.

The Elberton Gazette say:

We regret that illness prevented Hon. H. P. Mattox from being present at the organization of the legislature. Capt. Mattox has been ill for about a fortnight, at one time it was feared seriously ill, but we are glad to announce his convalescence, and that he will be able to proceed to Atlanta in a few days.

W. T. Revill, the oleagenous editor of the Greenville Vindicator, who is a Grecian, a fine tenor singer, a ladies' man, and a man of culture, leaves his paper in charge of his wife, and we doubt not his readers will object to any change being made when he returns. Revill says:

"Our good old lady has managed us for nearly twelve years, and we feel confident she can successfully conduct the paper for forty days. During the war it was said that the many farms were better managed by the ladies during the absence of their husbands than when the "gude" men were at home. So we trust the paper will improve under the temporary management of the lady to whose care it is entrusted. We can only say she brought us out wonderfully, when she kindly took us in charge, and we believe she will do the same for the paper."

Come to think of it, he does have a subdued look.

Among the earnest working members of the House, is E. D Graham, from the state of Dade. He was born in Jackson county, on September 4, 1840. He served as a member of the 6th Georgia, Colquitt's brigade, during the war. In 1865 he was elected a member of the Constitutional Convention, and in 1870 a representative from Dade, and again elected at the last election. He is an able lawyer, a safe legislator, and a true democrat.

Columbia county is again represented by S. C. Lamkin, who has represented her since 1870, in the House. He is a native of that county, having been born there on the 1st of June, 1834. He is a practical farmer and a high toned, public spirited gentleman. He talks but little in the House, but works the more.

Isaac J. Meadors was again returned by an approving constituency, at the last election, as a representative from Madison county. A practical farmer, he makes an able legislator.

He has filled various offices in his county, where he was born April 2th, 1849, and always to the satisfaction of the people.

Bullock county is fully satisfied with her representative, Hon. David L. Kennedy, for she again returns him to our legislative halls. Mr. Kennedy is a native of Tatnall county; about 38 years of age, and a doctor by profession. He was captain of the 47th Georgia, and served until the close of the war. He is an useful and diligent member, watchful of the interests of the people and meriting their confidence.

In the senate is found the lithe and active Charles C. Kibbee, from the 14th district. He was born in Macon, August 20th, 1839, and is therefore a young man yet. He graduated with distinguished honors at Princeton college in New Jersey, in 1857. In 1861 he entered the confederate service as a sergeant in Company G, 18th Georgia, and was promoted for gallantry on the battlefield to the position of lieutenant-colonel. In 1865 he was chosen a representative from Pulaski county; in 1870 elected senator from that district without opposition. He possesses an active mind, clear intellect and legislative experience. The only thing he needs is a —wife.

The 23d senatorial district is represented in the senate by William Rutherford, a native of Crawford county. He was born July 20th 1839. Planting has been his favorite pursuit. In ante-bellum times he was an old whig. He entered the Confederate service in 1862 as a lieutenant in the 45th Georgia regiment and served until the final surrender, at which time he had become captain. In 1870 he was elected representative from that county in the House. He is diligent, attentive and efficient.

Hon. Joseph P. Chastain represents the 41st senatorial district in the senate. He was born in Habersham county in 1830 and has been a democrat from his youth up. He is a preacher of the Baptist church and a farmer. In 1860 he was elected ordinary of Gilmer county, a position he held for four years. In 1870 he was elected representative from that county. In 1874 he was elected to the senate from that district. In the discharge of his duties he is observant, capable and earnest.

The 44th senatorial district experiences pleasure in the fact that she is so ably represented in the Senate by Hon. William H. Payne, of Catoosa. He was born in Cobb county in October, 1839, and moved to Catoosa county in 1850. He served during the war in the Confederate army, with gallantry. In 1866-7 he filled with ability and impartiality the office of Judge of Catoosa County Court. He was elected a member of the House in 1870 and to the Senate in 1872. He is an efficient and useful legislator, in the Senate chamber or committee room. He is admired for his integrity and devotion to principle in public as well as private life, and his genial disposition, generous impulses and benevolent instincts wins all hearts to him.

Weekly Cotton Review.

By telegraph to The Constitution.

New York, January 16.—During the week the market for cotton on spot has been very dull, but much stronger in tone. A few small lots have been taken by spinners, and transactions with importers have been limited to small lots, which were wanted to fill engaged freight room. For future delivery there has been a steady improvement, and the highest figures reached were ⅛c above those of last Friday week. The full improvement was not sustained, but there is a very firm feeling in trade.

—The steamer Plymouth Rock, with all her furniture, dining-room plate, and everything on board, just as she floats at the Narragansett Steamship Company's wharf, Newport, Rhode Island, was sold last week to Messrs. Jarratt & Palmer, managers of Booth's theatre, New York, who intend to employ her in making a series of excursions, beginning at the conclusion of the dramatic season. The original cost of the steamer was $500,000, and the price at auction was $750,000.

—A gentleman now residing in New York, an old ante-bellum citizen of Wilmington, N. C., but who shortly the war failed in the business he was engaged in, in both New York and Wilmington, gave a dinner on New Year's Eve, in the former city, to his creditors. It was a very pleasant occasion, and there was a full attendance, as the gentleman is held in high estimation. At the supper table each guest found under his plate a check covering the full amount of his claim against the host, together with interest in full to date, the whole amounting to more than $25,000. It is needless to say that this fact was highly appreciated, and that the upright host was toasted more than once during the happy occasion.

—The cigar dealers in Binghampton heve lately suffered loss by the depredations of a man with an umbrella. His plan was to enter the store and ask for a cigar, meanwhile hanging his umbrella by its hooked handle on the show case When the clerk handed him a box of cigars to select from he took one, and handed over a one, two or five dollar bill. When the clerk turned about to make change the customer dropped a number of cigars into his umbrella, took the change and walked out, carelessly drawing the umbrella tips together and stepping off as dignified as an acting corporal. The man was caught in the act after his movements had been watched for some weeks, but he settled the case.

JANUARY.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEA WEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS.—These deservedly celebrated and popular medicines have effected a revolution in the healing art, and proved the fallacy of several maxims which have for many years obstructed the ptogress of medical science. The false supposition that "Consumption is incurable" deterred physicians from attempting to find remedies for that disease, and patients afflicted with it reconciled themselves to death without making an effort to escape from a doom which they supposed to be unavoidable. It is now proved, however, that Consumption can be cured and that it has been cured a very great number of cases (some of them apparently desperate ones) by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone; and in other cases by the same medicine in connection with Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills, one or both, according to the requirements of the case.

Dr. Schenck himself, who enjoyed uninterrupted good health for more than forty years, was supposed, at one time to be at the very gate of death, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless, and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery, many thousands similarly affected have used Dr. Schenck's preparation with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his principal office, Corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists. jan1—deod1m

THE SPRING TERM OF MY PRIVATE School, at West End, will commence on the 18th instant. My place of teaching is a large and commodious room in my dwelling, comfortable in winter, and well ventilated and delightful in summer. The location is high and healthy, with extended grounds attached for physical recreation. I now have associated with me Prof. Chas F. Gailmard, a native of France, an experienced and successful teacher of the French language. Pupils placed with me can, in addition to a thorough preparation for college, receive instruction in French, and in a manner as to acquire a thoroughly pure accent. I have wrought faithfully for upwards of five years to establish this school, and this being the 11th term, is a guaranty of its permanent success. I desire four or five more boys as boarders.

DR. CALHOUN'S LIVER PILLS.

I AM engaged in the manufacture of the Celebrated Family Medicine, known as the Calhoun Liver and Anti-Billous Pills, under the supervision and assistance of Dr. Calhoun himself. This Pill has been in use for the last 35 years, and has taken precedence over all other Family preparations by all that have used them. Thousands would certify to their great value if necessary. One fact should supercede any amount of certificates, and that fact is this: Dr. Calhoun has been physician to the Fulton County Prison for over seven years, when the number of prisoners ranged from 20 to 70, laboring under all the diseases incidental to this climate. With but few exceptions they have all been treated with this Pill, and astonishing to say during that long period not a solitary death occurred under his treatment. This fact is worth any amount of testimonials.

I am now prepared to fill orders from druggists, merchants and others. All orders sent me shall receive prompt attention. There is no type of FEVER, DYSPEPSIA, DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, RHEUMATISM, CHOLERA MORBUS, BILIOUSNESS and SICK HEADACHE, or other diseases of a Southern climate, but yield readily to this preparation.

For sale by all druggists.

Price 50 cents a box.

None genuine unless it bears the signature of N. C. Williams and picture of Dr. Calhoun. Address N. C. WILLIAMS, Post-office Box 240, Atlanta, Ga. Manufactory No. 118, corner Washington and Peters sts., Atlanta, Ga. may14—dtf

CHESAPEAKE GUANO.

CHESAPEAKE GUANO

The general testimony of our patrons who have bought and used the Chesapeake Guano the past season is

VERY FAVORABLE,

and its reputation as a first-class Fertilizer has been fully sustained. We will be able, in a few days to supply the demand, with a fresh article, in fine condition, and will guarantee the composition and quality the same as heretofore sold by us.

The Best Evidence

we have to offer of its merits is the test in the soil made by the long list of certificates we have for distribution of those who have used it the past season, as well as for several years past. Please send in your orders to us or our various Local Agents in Middle and North Georgia.

For terms, circulars, &c., please apply to us, or our agents.

PATAPSCO GUANO.

PATAPSCO GUANO!

We are now receiving a supply of Patapsco Guano, in fine condition, and take pleasure in saying that it is one of the best Fertilizers sold in this or any other market, and that it has given universal satisfaction the past season. We have sold this Guano for five or six years, and have been able to collect nearly every dollar, notwithstanding the low price of cotton and hard times, which is sufficient guarantee of its value as a Fertilizer. It is fully up to the standard and will remain so as long as the Patapsco Guano Company offer it for sale. They have also supplied us with their

GRANGE MIXTURE,

for composting with Cotton Seed—at a very low price—which no doubt will take well here, as it has in other sections where it was sold last season.

For circulars and instructions please apply to us or our local agents.

As we have the advantage of a side track, make no charge for drayage in car load lots.

Zell's Ammoniated Bone

SUPER-PHOSPHATE.

We again offer to the Planters of Georgia the above celebrated Fertilizer, which comes into the market this season fresh and in good order, and guaranteed to be the same in composition and quality as heretofore sold. As an evidence of the Superior Merit and Intrinsic Value

of this Super-Phosphate, we would refer to those who have used it in this section for the past five or six years, and to the increased demand it has attained from year to year. The general report fully sustains its reputation. Terms same as last year, with the option to the planter to pay first November next, in middling cotton at 15 cents per pound.

Please apply to our various local agents for circulars of testimonials, or to us.

As we have the advantage of a side track, make no charge for drayage in car load lots.

PREMIUM FLOUR.

PREMIUM FLOUR!

TO THE PUBLIC.

IN again calling attention to our popular grades of flours, we will attempt no further elaboration of their merits, except to say, that no flour in the wide world can surpass our FFF in purity of stock and richness of sample; and that the world can't produce a more substantial or nutritive flour than our FF.

The Family is good for the price, but, necessarily limited in quantity; being made only when we make the FFF.

We can readily fill orders for FFF and FF; but in selling Family, we are compelled to limit the orders to the supply on hand.

Orders for the three grades in equal quantity can be filled at short notice. or for FFF and Family in nearly equal quantities. Orders can generally be supplied promptly.

VIRGINIA BUFFALO SPRINGS.

AMONG the most remarkable cures upon record, whether by medicine or mineral water, are some made by these waters in diseases of the KIDNEYS and BLADDER, in DYSPEPSIA, in DISEASES PECULIAR to WOMEN, more especially in Leucorrhea. They have accomplished the most gratifying results in GOUT and RHEUMATISM where dependent upon uric acid in the blood. In CHRONIC GONORRHEA, SECONDARY SYPHILIS, Gleet, and ALL KINDRED diseases, they are regarded by all medical men conversant with their effects as decidedly superior to any remedy in the range of medicine or among the mineral waters of the country.
